Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Although short of labor at her big floral gardens on North North Street, Mrs. Lizzie L. Buck has just completed the task of potting 4,000 poinsettias for Christmas bloom.

Poinsettias must be timed in order to be at their best for the holiday season, and by careful temperature, the poinsettias will be in all their glory during the Christmas season, and will brighten thousands of homes throughout this part of Ohio.

I also noticed that she had thousands of chrysanthemums and carnations in the long beds in the gardens, and these will be blooming profusely two or three months hence.

Other long beds of various flowers are being prepared for bloom during the fall and winter months.

Mrs. Buck is still in need of some help in the gardens where a great amount of preparatory work is necessary to insure abundance of bloom later on to gladden the hearts of flower-lovers generally and bring consolation to the hearts of those bowed down in sorrow.

I believe the weather man is doing his part toward insuring a corn crop in Fayette County this year, regardless of the late planting, the corn borer, and what not.

He sent heavy showers during May that delayed corn planting, and apparently saved the bulk of the corn crop from the corn borer.

Then he sent some unusually hot weather in June that simply brought the corn up almost overnight and started it growing "fit to kill."

Then in July he turned on the sprinkling can and sent so much moisture that the maturity of the crop, insofar as moisture is concerned, is assured.

In addition to that kind of weather he has dispensed, coupled with the greater productivity of hybrid corn, I notice that there is an unusually large number of stalks bearing two and three "shoots," as if the corn is anxious to do its part to give an abundant yield, help win the war and feed the multitudes.

I feel certain most of the corn is going to mature properly before frost causes serious damage. In other words the corn crop in Fayette County is looking up regardless of all its handicaps.

HUSBAND IS HELD FOR STABBING RIVAL

Knife Wielded in Fight Under Night Club Table

AKRON, Aug. 3.—(P)—While a magician performed his tricks in a dimly-lighted East Akron night club, a rubber worker was stabbed to death early today under a table.

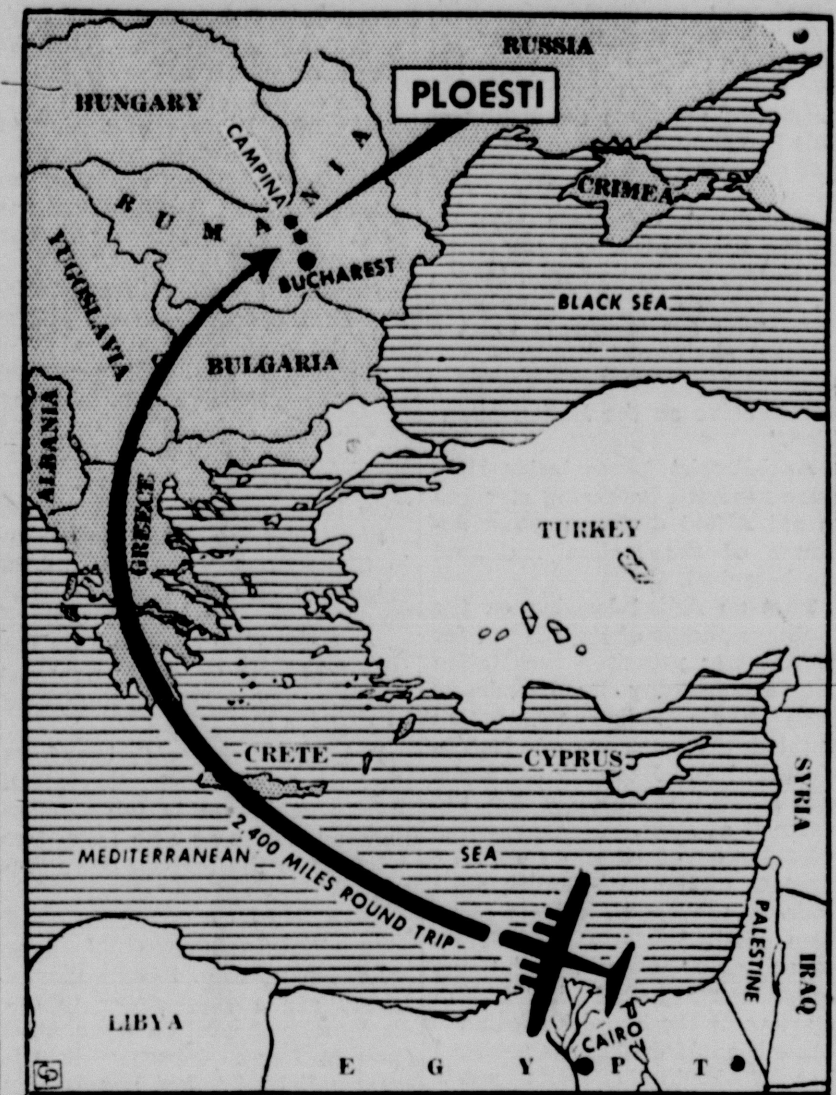

Joseph Oldaker of the police vice squad identified the victim as Wilbur E. Carney, 24-year-old widower employed at the Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., who died of eight stab wounds apparently inflicted with a small penknife. Charged with murder in an affidavit filed by Detective Wayne Pressler was Clifford Dylbeck, 33, a Goodyear supervisor who denied the stabbing.

Assistant Prosecutor Bernard Roetz of Summit County quoted Dylbeck as saying he returned home from work last midnight, found his wife was not at home and went to the cafe to look for her. He asked her to leave Carney and the other couple to accompany him home and then related that Carney grabbed him by the neck and started a scuffle. Both men rolled under the table and it was then, Oldaker asserted, that Carney was stabbed.

Dylbeck denied the stabbing and told police he did not have a knife. Roetz reported. Dylbeck is the father of a 13-year-old daughter.

P-38 Taken on Fastest and Longest Plunge Yet

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(P)—Aviation experts are studying the possibilities unfolded by the feat of an American test pilot who shattered all world records when he succeeded in diving a P-38 Lightning plane 25,000 feet, or nearly five miles, and achieved a speed of more than 780 miles an hour—approximately the speed of sound.

The flier, Lieut. Col. Cass S. Hough of Plymouth, Mich., technical director of the Eighth Fighter Command of the United States Army Air Forces, was given the Distinguished Flying Cross by Brig. Gen. Frank O. D. Hunter, commander of American fighter planes in the European theater. Hough's citation said the award was made for special attainment in "independent flight research."

Hough's dive is believed to be the longest in aviation history. It was made in September, 1942. (The highest speed previously officially recorded in a power dive was approximately 725 miles an hour.)

Ruins Of Hamburg Hit Again Clothes Torn From Survivors By Concussion

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(P)—A great fleet of the RAF's biggest bombers returned to battered Hamburg last night and gave the once-thriving German port its eighth pounding in 10 days to break all records for sustained attacks upon a single target.

Fires set in the last assault on Hamburg Thursday night were burning as the RAF swept over the city to add to the havoc created by some 8,000 tons of bombs dropped in the seven previous raids.

Thirty bombers were reported lost in the raid, which was carried out in great force and was accompanied by attacks upon other objectives in northwest Germany, an announcement said. An Air Ministry communique said that in addition to the raid on Hamburg, other bombers blasted objectives in the Ruhr Valley, and that Beaufighters and Mosquitos from the fighter command flew deep into Holland and northwest Germany. Airfields and targets at Sylt and Cuxhaven were bombed. Two fighter command planes were reported missing.

Royal Australian Air Force Hampdens of the Coastal Command operating off the coast of Norway, torpedoed an enemy supply ship, the communique said.

The assaults broke a two-night lull in the great Allied aerial offensive which was launched on Saturday, July 24, when American bombers blasted the German base at Trondheim.

MUNDA BATTLE NEARS CLIMAX

American Drive Ahead in Jungle But Japs Have To Be Killed - Won't Retreat

By C. YATES McDANIEL
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 3.—(P)—The battle of Munda neared its climax today with United States forces breaking down final Japanese defensive positions after a general advance of 500 to 1,200 yards carried them almost to the edge of the strategic New Georgia airfield.

Supplementing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tuesday communique which announced the advance, a naval spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey's command in the South Pacific said American troops reached a point "close to the eastern edge of the field."

He disclosed that tanks, flame throwers and artillery supported Marine and Army units in their advance.

Many Japanese were killed in the attack. Although there was no indication of retreat, Japanese resistance was not as strong as heretofore.

Simultaneously, Allied forces in New Guinea brought the Japanese stronghold at Salamaua under artillery bombardment for the first time.

These new successes were recounted today in a communique which also told of a one-sided aerial victory over the Japanese, of the firing of an enemy destroyer, and of a heavy bombing of the Buin-Faisi harbor and the Kahili airdrome, the enemy's major operating base in the Solomons.

Lt. Peter Krug Escapes Prison In Canada Again

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 3.—(P)—Lt. Peter Krug, German airman whose previous escape from a Canadian prison camp led to the conviction of treason of Max Stephan, Detroit restaurateur, has escaped again and the possibility he swam across the Detroit River early today is being investigated by police on both sides of the border.

Krug escaped yesterday from an officers' prison camp at Gravenhurst, Ont.

Special Constable T. Cody of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, a guard at the Ambassador Bridge here, reported that he fired a warning shot into the air when a tall man in swimming trunks and a white shirt failed to halt at his command. The blonde, stocky Krug is 5 feet 8½ inches tall.

Draft Of Fathers Likely This Fall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(P)—Only a handful of states can get through October without some drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor Fathers now that Selective Service has lifted the ban against it, an unofficial survey indicated today.

Many states reported they were scraping the bottom of the manpower barrel and if they are to meet October quotas, fathers heretofore deferred for dependency reasons alone must go into uniform.

Draft headquarters authorities expressed regret the step had to be taken and asserted every means would be exhausted before general induction would proceed. None would predict, however, that men with families still would be civilians much after November 1, unless of course they were engaged in essential occupations, or farming, or local boards ruled their induction would bring severe hardship to their wives and children.

Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt announced yesterday the lifting of the ban on induction of fathers whose children were born before September 15, 1942. He emphasized, however, that the local boards should call up fathers after October 1 only to the extent "absolutely required" to meet their quotas.

It was estimated that perhaps 300,000 family men actually would be inducted this year. Married men still in civilian life average 30.5 years of age and the rejection rate was expected to be high.

The "bottom of the barrel" states include Tennessee, Alabama, Oklahoma, Maryland, Arkansas, Nebraska, Utah and Maine.

7-PLY PROPOSAL FOR ARMISTICE REPORTED MADE

Battle for Island Gateway To Italy Now Raging Into Climatic Phase

YANKS SMASH AXIS LINE

British Push Back Defenses Of Catania as Canadians Drive Toward Messina

By ROGER GREENE
(By The Associated Press)

Allied troops racing to deliver the knockout blow in the battle of Sicily were officially credited today with smashing through the center of the enemy's 55-mile Mt. Etna defense line, capturing at least five more strategic towns and wiping out a bulge of 70 square miles.

Axis defenses appeared to be crumbling rapidly. "Our troops, fighting hard, are forcing their way through rugged and roadless country," the Allied command announced.

Italian headquarters acknowledged that the Allies had launched a powerful assault on the German-defended southern flank where Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th Army has been hammering for weeks to break into Catania.

"The enemy has extended his attacks on the southern sector of the front, where bitter fighting is going on," the Italian war bulletin said.

Axis prisoners passed the 90,000 mark.

As the battle raged into its climatic phases, the German news agency DNB broadcast a Geneva dispatch to the Italian newspaper Popolo Di Roma declaring President Roosevelt had made a seven-point armistice proposal to Italy. By Axis account, Mr. Roosevelt laid down the following terms:

1. The Italian army and navy are to cease all resistance.
2. Collaboration with Germany must cease at once.
3. Italian troops in Greece, Albania, France and former Yugoslavia are to be withdrawn at once.
4. War materials must be handed over to the Allies undamaged.
5. A British-American-Soviet military government will be established in Italy until the end of operations.
6. The arrest of all war criminals.
7. Release of all Allied prisoners of war on Italian soil.

The terms, noticeably stiffer than those offered last week by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and received with silence by Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's new regime, apparently were calculated to put an end to Italian hopes for a bargain-counter peace. On the Sicilian front, General Eisenhower's command announced Allied armies were sweeping into the western end of the Catania plain, while Allied warships were reported shelling German and Italian troops retreating eastward along the Tyrrhenian Sea coast toward Messina.

A communique reported the capture of Regalbuto, Capizzi and Cerami, and Prime Minister Churchill further disclosed the fall of Troina and Centuripe. Churchill said American 7th Army troops stormed through the enemy's defense network at Troina, 10 miles east of Nicosia, and Canadian forces seized Regalbuto which lies almost in the shadow of towering Mt. Etna.

"A substantial bridgehead north of the Dittaino has been established," Allied headquarters announced.

"Many German dead are reported." The Dittaino River flows immediately south of Catania.

Prime Minister Churchill said American troops driving along the northern coast toward the Axis "escape port" at Messina were advancing in the face of extensive demolitions by the enemy. Large Allied reinforcements were brought up during last

Another eyewitness report of the shambles to which Germany's greatest seaport has been reduced was given by a Danish worker quoted in the Svenska Dagbladet, who said:

"After the attack nothing was the same as before. I saw only ruins. The city was burning everywhere—even the streets. Many persons were as good as naked. Some wore only underclothes."

"Whoever didn't see this devastation can't begin to imagine it. Bodies were lying everywhere and what was worse, almost all ad their eyes open. They died from air pressure of giant bombs and their clothes were torn from their bodies."

Dispatches from Copenhagen said the Germans were merely clearing paths through the debris-choked streets and that the ruins continued to smoulder.

Meanwhile the German press, as quoted in Swedish dispatches, admitted that "we face the question of whether the German people also are invincible."

Invincibility of Germany on all the war fronts was stressed in this comment.

Total sales of war bonds and stamps at the Fayette County Fair last week amounted to $1,051.50, according to figures released by Miss Nancy Lee James, chairman of the war bond booth at the fair.

Of this amount $756.50 was purchased by the Fair Board to be used as premiums. Nearly all awards this year were presented in the form of war stamps. Small denomination stamps, ten and 25 cents, accounted for $70 of the total. The remaining $225 was made by the sale of three war bonds, two $100 denominations and one $25.

awed by the terrific destruction the raid had inflicted. He said the fires were the biggest he had ever seen anywhere. He said the bombers hit just about everything worth hitting in the entire mile-long oil pumping and refinery district in and around Ploesti.

A terrific air battle raged during the attack. Swarms of Rumanian and German fighters were waiting at high altitudes for the American bomber fleet and pounced as it neared the target.

The defenses had been on the alert approximately an hour, as the flight of the Americans had been charted while they were still crossing Bulgaria.

The eyewitness said he saw some big bombers crash but that many more of the attacking fighters came down.

The raiders headed straight for their individual targets, heedless of the fierce opposition, while the gunners poured steel into Focke-Wulf 190s flown by Germans and Messerschmitts piloted by Rumanians.

The low height at which the American airmen flew to the attack threw the ground gunners off their aim.

The eyewitness said it still was impossible to assess accurately the damage because of the widespread fires, but that probably the Ploesti region's efficiency as an oil producing and refining center had been cut by half at least.

GERMAN VERSION LONDON, Aug. 3.—(P)—The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, quoted a Rumanian communique today as saying 116 persons were killed and 147 wounded in the raid by American Liberator bombers on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania Sunday.

A Rome radio version of the Rumanian communique said 36 American planes had been shot down and that 66 crewmen had been captured.

A Cairo air communique yesterday acknowledged loss of 20 of the bombers participating in the raid.

DEAD FISH ODORS TO DISAPPEAR SOON

Health Department Makes Inquiry and Report

Odors coming from Eshelman's Feed plant on Clinton Avenue should be greatly reduced within the next 24 hours, according to Dr. William Bolton, County Board of Health investigator.

The odors are caused by grinding dried fish scrap for use in making hog feed said Dr. Bolton and added that the grinding should be finished in a short time.

He pointed out that the Eshelman plant had been grinding fish scrap for a long time without any resultant odors, but that the last shipment of fish scrap received had been delayed and the scrap was dried before it could be ground. The dust from the dried scrap being blown from the feed plant was the direct cause of the odor, Dr. Bolton explained.

Ordinarily, the fish scrap is not dry when received and because of the moisture contained in it, no dust is blown about, and consequently no odors are given off, Dr. Bolton said. The scrap is shipped from the Eastern seaboard and as fishing is a seasonal occupation, the scrap is ground at Eshelman's only a few times a year.

The present shipment is being ground at accelerated speed in order to shorten the time of the odor's existence as much as possible, it was said.

ALLIES ARE CLOSING TRAP ON AXIS IN SICILY AS ARMISTICE PLAN REPORTED

week's lull, he said, and the front has been "properly garnished" with artillery and supplies of every kind.

Underlining General Eisenhower's warning that Italy would be brought under devastating aerial assault, the Italian command reported today Allied bombers struck again at Naples, Italy's greatest port, and raided other points in southern Italy and Sardinia.

On the Italian home front, Premier Badoglio maintained his silent defiance of the Allies' invasion warnings, and dispatches from Madrid said there was talk of an impending "peace march" on Rome.

Anti-Fascist forces inside Italy were reported gathering strength to force Badoglio to capitulate.

COUNTY BEHIND QUOTA OF BLOOD ON OPENING DAY

County Chairman, However, Expects Deficit To Be Made Up on Last Day

Although Monday's take for the Fayette County Blood Bank fell 18 short of the quota of 140 pints of blood, Mrs. Selby Gerstner, general chairman of the blood donor committee, indicated that officials expected the deficit to be made up Tuesday.

Mrs. Gerstner said that a good number of donors were coming to the Methodist Church to give blood who had not previously registered. She also pointed out that the ruling against four consecutive pints being given by one person had been rescinded and that the lifting of this ban should increase the number of pints given the blood bank here.

Additional volunteer workers at the blood bank are Miss Ella D. Kinne, nurse, and Mrs. Milton C. Panzlau, and Miss Jane Durant, who are assistants to the general chairman.

an offensive on the Italian mainland."

Anti-Fascist forces inside Italy were reported gathering strength to aid Allied divisions when defenses of the Italian mainland are breached.

That an Allied landing on the southern shores of Italy is not far distant was promised the Italian people yesterday by broadcasts from Radio Algiers, which couched the names of Benito Mussolini and Badoglio as "those evil forces" responsible for the betrayal of Italy.

Evidence of the growing strength of the anti-Fascist, anti-Badoglio movement in Italy came from Madrid where talk of an impending "peace march" on Rome was reported in Italian quarters in the Spanish capital.

The Madrid dispatches asserted that if Badoglio stalls much longer, Italian leftists may organize a people's march on the Italian capital, Milan and other centers from all points in Italy. This was the strategy by which Benito Mussolini succeeded in grasping power for his Fascist party on October 30, 1922.

Badoglio apparently was striving feverishly to maintain his government at all costs—telling the Italian people on one hand that he is doing everything in his power to obtain a fair peace while issuing veiled threats of continued defiance for consumption abroad on the other hand.

Reports from neutral countries expressed doubt, however, as to just how much Badoglio could count on Italian military forces if he attempted to resist an Allied invasion.

Nowhere among the great masses of the Italian people, according to the best information obtainable here, is there any sign of bitterness toward the Allies, although hostility toward the Nazis is reported as almost universal.

U. S.-SOVIET RELATIONS CLOSE IN WAR BUT ARE PROBLEM AFTER VICTORY

June 30 and supplies are moving in the greatest volume ever.

On the battlefields, co-operation is shown by the coincidence of the Russian offensive on the Orel front with the Allied invasion of Sicily.

A tendency is apparent, however, in public and press of both sides to play down the other's actions.

Before I left the United States, there was some hesitation to accept the German attack at Kursk on July 5 as a full-fledged offensive, yet I have just seen striking evidence to that effect from within Nazi lines.

The evidence was contained in a diary found on the body of Hans Gerhardt, an officer in the 32nd German Battalion of engineers.

On July 3 he wrote: "There's something in the air. It smells like a storm. It is the beginning of our offensive; it is time."

"Alarm. We are preparing to march. 1900 o'clock our first car leaves town for new victories. For a long time the Kurst salient has been like a pin sticking in our eye. We want it cut out."

On July 5 he continued: "0230 o'clock the sound of our planes fills the air."

By July 8 Gerhardt recorded that the offensive was slowing down. On July 15 he reported his transfer to Orel to face the Russian counter-offensive. On July 18 he was killed at Bolkhov.

Similarly, the Allied campaign in Sicily has been getting a relatively small play in the Soviet press. It was first referred to as a "landing operation on the island of Sicily" and now as "military operations on the island of Sicily."

President Roosevelt's broadcast on July 28, however, was given great prominence in the Russian newspapers, occupying two columns in the foreign news sections.

REDS CLOSING IN

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(P)—Soviet troops are edging closer to encirclement of Orel on the central Russian front, Moscow broadcasts indicated today, announcing the capture of 70 more villages in fierce fighting in which the Red Army was said to have slain 2,500 Germans and destroyed many Nazi tanks.

The Soviet midnight communique said the Red Army, closing in from the east, south, southwest, north and northwest, had advanced from four to seven miles on all fronts but did not indicate how close its forces were to the besieged city.

A Berlin radio broadcast recorded by Reuters and several London morning newspapers indicated the Russian Army had entered the city itself.

The broadcast suggested the Germans were trying to prepare the home front for possible loss of the base.

The attack was proceeding with strong support from the Red Army Air Force.

CREDITORS OPERATE C-LOAN COMPANY

Frank K. Collop Plan for April High

Reports from the plan that Frank K. Collop, formerly of Washington, had informed Master soner Gail Butts, Monday, that plan was being prepared for which creditors of the C-Loan Co. of Lancaster, which has a branch in Washington C. H., would take over the firm and operate it.

The company has applied for reorganization under the bankruptcy act and its difficulties have been pending in the courts for several months.

Collop said the plan had the approval of a substantial number of creditors and Butts said it would be submitted to the court for its approval. If the court grants its sanction, the plan then will be circulated among the creditors for their final approval.

Collop said that under the plan each creditor would receive one share of no-par stock for each $10 indebtedness.

A hearing was set for Sept. 3.

Hitler Growing Desperate
And Prepares Defenses for Germany, Then Come Bombs

Fast moving crises on all fronts combine to give the impression of a Europe which is rushing headlong for the show-down—not that the end necessarily is imminent but that the final phase of Armageddon is close at hand.

Italian Marshal Badoglio's delay in dealing with the Allied demand for surrender is reported to have given Hitler the opportunity to establish a line of perhaps a quarter million German troops right across northern Italy as a buttress against an Allied drive from the south. The Nazis also are said to have occupied the great port of Trieste at the head of the Adriatic, thus closing one important gateway to the Balkans.

It isn't clear whether Badoglio connived at this, or whether he was forced into it unwillingly by threats of reprisals against the Italian population by the Nazi war lord. However, that's muddy water over the dam. Of more immediate concern is the fact that the Allies have a large problem on their hands, assuming that the reports of German troop movements are accurate.

The Fuehrer's move is, of course, purely defensive. He expects the United Nations to overrun the lower two-thirds of the Italian peninsula. However, that no longer is useful to him and he probably doesn't intend to offer much opposition until the enemy reaches his first line of defense, which Madrid reports may be anchored at the naval base of La Spezia on the west coast and run eastward to the Adriatic. That would be about 200 miles north of Rome.

Hitler's main line will be a hundred miles farther north, taking advantage of the strategic fortifications along the River Po. Here he will dispute the Allied rights of way to France, Germany or the Balkans.

If you will glance at your maps you will see what a magnificent defensive line the Po affords. We may expect fierce fighting here, unless there's a great change in the picture as it appears now.

The purpose of the Nazi chief's move is to stand the Allies off while he makes final preparations to defend his so-called inner fortress, into which he will retire if the pressure continues as at present. This is the circle within which he proposes to make his last-ditch stand to safeguard the Reich and such of the occupied territories as he thinks he can hang onto.

With this concentration of power, and a vast shortening of his now interminable communications, he will battle to force a stalemate.

The all highest's plan is a scheme of desperation. This is emphasized today as the Anglo-American forces race for the coup de grace in Sicily, as the amazing Russians continue their slaughter of Nazis in the fierce Orel offensive, and as the Allied bombers deal crushing blows to great German cities while fear spreads throughout the Reich.

British Foreign Secretary Eden yesterday handed Hitler a grim reminder of the Nazi position by quoting the Fuehrer's own words of January 30, 1939:

"As regards National Socialist Germany, she is well aware of the fate that will befall her if ever an international force, whatever its motives, succeeds in overwhelming Fascist Italy."

But in Germany the fate of Italy has been pushed into the background by the terrors of the round-the-clock bombing to which the Reich is being subjected. Daily it becomes more apparent that this rain of death and destruction is playing a major role—perhaps the major role—in forcing Hitler to his knees. We have now reached the point of speculation as to how long he can endure the ordeal without collapse.

The German newspapers have abandoned their braggadocio. They are admitting in terms of fear that the bombing surpasses anything which imagination hitherto has conjured up. Trains loaded with dead and wounded and with terrified refugees are fleeing cities like Hamburg whose

Demand for Aid

With the increasing activity of the Army Air Forces in all theaters of operation of World War II, a heavy burden has been placed upon both the Air Service Command Headquarters and the Fairfield Air Depot located at Dayton, to discharge their responsibilities of supplying our airmen, wherever they may be.

These activities are in urgent need of civilian personnel, particularly various types of Aircraft Mechanics, General Mechanical Helpers, and female clerical workers of all types.

At the present time, overtime rates are being paid for a forty-eight hour week, which increases the base salary by approximately 21.6 percent. All appointments are for the duration of the present war and approximately six months thereafter.

Ward C. Miller, manager of the United States Employment Service said Tuesday that his office is cooperating with the United States Civil Service Commission and Army Air Forces, in an effort to supply these vitally needed civilian employees.

Representatives of the Army Air Corps will be in Washington C. H. at the United States Employment Service office 104 E. Market Street, Thursday, from 10:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. All persons interested are urged to apply, particularly men in Class 1-A who will be accepted if their induction is not imminent for at least one month.

'WILD CAT' STRIKE
ENDED BY WELDERS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 3—(AP)—Eighteen welders at work on a 20-inch cross-country oil pipeline, who walked off the job on Saturday halting all construction in this section, returned to work today.

Walter Mack of the C. S. Foreman Construction Co., said only that the dispute—reported to have originated in refusal of some men to work with others—had been settled and that, today, "everything is fine."

B. F. Hall, general superintendent of the firm, previously characterized the walkout as a "wildcat" strike. The men were working on a section of the pipeline extending from Red Lion, O., to Lancaster, O., 105 miles.

At long last the Berlin press is saying that while the Fatherland is invincible on the war fronts, there's a question whether the German people are invincible.

Wear Finland Down

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Colburn, after a trip to Finland, tells of living conditions in the war-ravaged country, and of the aspirations of the people.

By JOHN H. COLBURN
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3—(AP)—Finland's war scarred men and resources, the shabbiness in dress that is stylish, empty shop windows and extremely rigid food rationing mirror the havoc caused by two years of warfare.

The current war is their second in four years and the people are tired of war, but it is a psychological weariness that comes from the inability to get good food or a real cup of coffee; from having to crowd into packed trolley cars, clump around in wood-soled shoes or wear clothing fabricated from paper textiles—apparel which becomes useless after several hard rains.

People still can laugh and have a good time, especially the younger generation, and morale is high despite the general desire for peace.

Everyone would like to get back the fine prosperous life which they led before 1939, but maintain they cannot until Finland's independence is assured.

Finns hobbling around on crutches are a grim reminder of the heavy price the little republic's manhood is paying.

Most of Helsinki's bomb scars are healed but much of the Karelian Isthmus is devastated. Viipuri is still a city of naked walls.

Only 55 homes were rebuilt in Karkisalmi, where 800 were set afire as the Russians retreated two years ago.

The Finns burned hundreds of their own farm houses during the winter of 1940 and many farm families are living in two room temporary houses, many of them prefabricated by soldiers during idle hours in the listless front lines.

Reconstruction work is slow due to limited manpower and lack of materials. Finland's small scale pattern of the gigantic reconstruction job that faces Europe forecasts a troublesome problem after peace comes.

In some respects Finland is like an occupied country. Due to the Allied blockade she is economically dependent on Germany. It is a daily sight to see uniformed German soldiers, sailors and young girl members of the Nazi Army Auxiliary in the streets of Helsinki.

The German band even gives concerts in one summer restaurant.

But where there was much hell in the streets two years ago, there is little now, and the Nazi flag is seldom seen.

Despite the presence of the German...

mans, the people are beginning to talk of an Allied victory. That trend of thought since the fall of Tunisia and the invasion of Sicily has increased although the Finnish press is still prevented from saying anything detrimental about Germany.

Some sections of the Finnish press have gone so far as to try and disillusion the people about Axis victory chances, and the German foreign office has protested.

When asked why they do not withdraw from the war and let the Germans occupy the country, the Finns reply, in effect:

"We can't do that. Germany will lose the war and the Bolsheviks will march in as liberators and we would suffer like Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in 1940."

The Finns are as stubborn as they are tough, and they are determined to battle for independence just as they have fought nature to cultivate farmlands out of the rock crust left by the ice age.

Two thirds of the nation's 3,800,000 population are engaged in agriculture or forestry and most of them are spread around the country's lakes, swamps and forests in isolated communities, where they must depend on their own self reliance to combat the frigid winters to earn a livelihood.

No one is starving, and food conditions are better than in 1918, but the average family must rely principally on potatoes, fish and dark bread except during the vegetables season. About 20,000 children have been sent to Sweden to get proper nourishment.

The food problem is complicated by bad harvests since 1938.

The employment situation, aided by the scarcity of consumer goods, is leaving the stores with little need for manpower. Many establishments not only boarded their windows to protect the glass from bomb splinters but because they had nothing to display. The people spend most of their extra money on amusement, with American motion pictures being popular.

Most of the people have lost weight, but health generally is good. Although tuberculosis is increasing and nervousness caused by air raids and alarms is resulting in more heart disease, Doctor O. S. K. Reinikainen, chief of the medical board reported fewer epidemics than in other war years.

There has been an increase in crime.

Reinikainen said the care of invalids would be the biggest post war medical problem. From the winter war there were 8,000 crippled men among the 57,000 wounded, the Red Cross reported. No official casualty figures will be released until after this war, but estimates place the dead at 50,000 and the wounded at 100,000.

During the winter war of 1939-40, 23,000 were killed and the Red Cross is busy caring for 7,000 war widows and 20,000 fatherless children.

ABOUT LIVING COSTS
Statistical measurements of the cost of living are out of date before they are completed. It takes time to gather the basic information, to transmit it to Washington, to go through the lengthy and somewhat involved computations by which huge masses of figures are reduced, eventually, to a simple statement that it cost 26.9 percent more to live on May 15, 1943, than it did on August 15, 1939.

However, at present the trend is ever upward. When Labor Department figures as of May 15 arrive on July 15, we can be certain of one thing: The cost of living is higher now than when the figures were gathered by government shoppers in 1200 stores in 56 cities from Savannah to Seattle.

Therefore all such statistics must be taken with understanding of their fallibility. The cost of living today exceeds that for August 15, 1939, by more than 26.9 percent—statistically. Actually, as it affects your pocketbook and ours, the cost of living today is even more excessive than government figures show. And nobody, however great his resources, can determine how much greater.

The reason is this. In determining cost of living the government or any other agency assumes that the average family buys so many pounds of bread, of pot roast, of prime rib roast; so many quarts of milk; such and such items of clothing, etc. "Weighting" thus the comparative prices ascertained by shoppers, it is determined that it would have cost so much to buy these items on August 15, 1939, so much more on April 15, 1943, and therefore that the weighted cost of living has risen by 26.9 percent.

But we live now in an economy of great and growing and shifting scarcities. We do not buy now what we bought in 1939. Mother goes to the store resolved to economize by getting a pot roast, and the butcher is sorry but he has no pot roasts. How about some bottom round? That's all gone. She winds up with a prime rib roast that she never would have thought of buying in 1939, or more probably, today, with a loin roast of pork that takes every penny she had.

If the butcher had been able to sell her pot roast the cost of living for that meal might have risen only 50 or 60 percent. But because she has to buy a much more expensive cut, also away above the 1939 price, Sunday dinner in this worker's home may cost 100, 125 or 150 percent more than it would have in 1939.

Statistical measurements do not take account of this episode, repeated half a dozen times a week in almost every family.

The actual cost of living has risen infinitely more than the theoretical statistical increase that was measured, at last word from Washington, as 26.9 cents on the dollar.

WASHINGTON—Labor's old suspicion that dollar-a-year men were coloring War Production Board policy with a big-business tint should be pretty well allayed by now.

A pair of staunch labor men, Clinton Golden of CIO, and Joseph D. Keenan of AFI, hold two of WPB's prized vice-chairmanships and are getting things accomplished in a hurry. Appointed in June, they have been so busy trouble-shooting that they have not had time to get their staffs set up. Here's a sample of the way Golden was notified that the Great Lakes Steel Corp. had to have 20 bricklayers at once to re-line a furnace: lacking them, 40,000 tons of armor plate would be lost. There were no bricklayers within many miles.

grow greater. Fire bombs will play a major part if such attacks occur.

As the Office of Civilian Defense points out: "War has aggravated the fire hazards in every American community. Ordinary day-to-day fires threaten our lives and war production. Beyond that, the new enemy high explosive fire bombs carry with them the threat of disastrous conflagrations unless trained volunteers are ready to stop small fires before they can endanger large areas. In present day bombings of cities and vital war centers, fire bombs comprise more than half the 'pay load.' A city may have to face more than a thousand fires set simultaneously—a task far beyond the capacity of regular fire-fighting forces."

The OCD is mobilizing a fire guard force of selected civilians not only to combat fire caused by enemy action, but to combat fire losses brought about by our own carelessness. The result of OCD efforts should be to make the nation increasingly aware of the fire menace. If it succeeds, it may well render a service of far greater value than the potential damage threatening the country from enemy bombers.

CANAL FACILITIES

Americans do not always appreciate the wonders they possess close at home. Though the Panama and Suez Canals are more widely known, the combined tonnage of the freight passing through them both is less than in the Soo Canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., connecting Lake Superior with the lower Great Lakes. Particularly important to the war effort is the immense volume of the ore traffic, now to become still greater from the opening of a new lock.

The new lock, just dedicated, is 5 1-2 feet deeper than the three others, besides having technical improvements which will greatly cut the time for sending boats through. Last winter at the Soo was the bitterest ever recorded, but the lock was completed almost four months ahead of schedule.

Such new structures will be of great value in times of peace as well as war. Not all our colossal war-time expenditures will go up in smoke.

Boeing was running eight-hour shifts around the clock, but the graveyard shift was undermanned and wasn't producing. Keenan mapped a plan calling for two ten-hour shifts instead of three eight hour shifts. Women and men who couldn't stand the longer work days would work five hours shifts.

Golden, a planner and organizer, is finding ways of getting men to the most important war jobs first. Keenan, veteran union negotiator, carries government's Boil formation also is frequent in this spot of skin and, again, conditions are perfect for the boil to be painful in the extreme because the walls of the canal are limited by bone and do not give at all when inflammatory swelling occurs.

The whole process is a vicious circle. If there is any discharge from the middle ear, the discharge causes the skin to become soft and a layer of debris forms, perfect for the cultivation of fungi and pus-forming germs. If pus forms, it may even penetrate the ear drum, lighting up the old middle ear infection again.

Clear Up Infections Early
Again it may go clear beyond the external ear and involve the lymph nodes in the neck. It behooves everyone to get at these infections early and nip them in the bud.

Perhaps the best universal anti-septic for the external ear is a weak solution of alcohol. One of my ear specialist friends says it has to be put on by someone who can see what he is doing, but in spite of these pronouncements many cases are cured by moistening a pledget of cotton with alcohol and leaving that in the canal for an hour or two.

Leave My Heart Alone by ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
"I DON'T see why you let him go," Paul said, not for the first time, during the bi-weekly round of golf that Karen and he played together by mutual arrangement every Wednesday and Friday afternoons. "In fact, I can't understand it, Karen, when you are so fussy about that kid, never letting me have a day with him, for instance, guarding him like a police dog from any outside influence or possible disturbance, mentally as well as bodily. Then to let Buffy go off with someone you admit you know very little about and the sort of someone this person quite evidently must be, and off to a trailer camp, of all places."
He smirked a particularly vicious drive that made a good 200 yards and more, but bounded into the edge of the rough, a bad shot for Paul, and one that gave evidence of his disapproval even more than what he had just said.
Karen waited until she sent a clean, swift drive after his that landed her almost on the green. She thought it was better to wait. By this time she was in a state of mild disapproval, too. She could not see why Paul should enter into this matter about Buffy. She had simply told him off-handily about letting the child go to a party with a man she knew who lived in a trailer camp. She had thought Paul would be pleased that the child was going to a party, and incidentally, that that took him entirely off Karen's mind and hands.
Of course that was it; Paul was jealous again, even of this "somebody" she admitted she knew very little about, although Karen felt she knew enough about Marty to trust Buffy with him.
She said, "I couldn't help letting him go. He was so delighted and anxious. If only you'd seen his little face light up. This man, his name is Martin Halliday, is a friend of Buffy's, too. Maybe that was the wrong way to put it, if indeed Paul was jealous, for Buffy's face had never lighted up over Paul, although he liked him well enough. And besides, now Paul would think she knew Martin better than she did, and wonder why he had been kept in the background."
Karen had had every intention of having Martin and Paul meet; she had told Marty that night when she had had dinner in his trailer that she wanted him to know Paul. She wanted Paul to know Marty, too, but the opportunity so far simply had not arisen.
She said further, "I didn't dream that I did not know that it was all right for Buffy to go with him. I wouldn't let him go with just anybody, and Martin is not 'quite evidently' the kind of person he must be." As she quoted Paul's words, Karen was struck with the fact that now HE was the snob, to take that attitude, without knowing. "And a trailer camp"—Paul would not know anything about that, either—"is really a very nice place, Paul."
He might have asked how she knew this, but he did not. He waited, too, until he had gotten out of the rough, although it cost him an extra stroke, before answering. Then he did not even ask how she happened to know Martin. Probably Paul took it for granted that Karen had met "this person" somehow or other during some one of her charitable works. He would not imagine any other means for a girl like Karen to get to know, even slightly, a man who lived in a trailer.
Paul did not know Martin Halliday, who could not have been stopped by any social barriers, and who was not like anyone Karen had ever known.
Paul said, "Just the same, I cannot see how it would be good for the boy, as you seem to believe. Of course," he shrugged his shoulders and sank his putt, which seemed to put him back into his usual excellent good humor, "I admit I'm sticking in my big nose. If you say it's all right, and even good for him, no doubt it is, but I don't believe just Buffy's wanting to go so much should sway your judgment. Sometimes, you know, darling, it's good for a boy to have to do the things he does not want to do."
Karen took two putts, which evened their score on this hole after all. She and Paul always played a well-matched game. They should, having been playing together so long and so often. A man like Marty, she did not suppose, had time in that full life of his for games like golf. He would probably consider them a waste of time.
"I suppose you are right," she could agree with Paul enough to show him she did not mean to spoil Buffy, and she knew that was difficult to keep from doing, as he and Cousin Ellen continued to warn her, and the boy's grandfather. "I suppose I am a police dog" now it was Paul calling her names—"but if anything should happen to Buffy, with his mother so far away and all the responsibility on us—"
"I try to tell you you take it too hard," Paul's tone was patient now, to show how strained his patience was on this particular issue, "and that you ought not take all the responsibility on your slight shoulders, my dear. After all, as I also have tried to say before, there are others more than willing to share—your father, the other members of your household and, I hope, myself."
Was that why Paul felt jealousy, because Karen kept the boy too close to her own heart? She had been selfish about him; she loved him so. If Paul knew him better, and Buffy knew Paul, the way the boy and Marty romped on the beach. And, too, Paul had said, "You never let ME have a day alone with him." That showed Paul would like to get closer to the boy, and that sort of jealousy was justifi-

Penicillin Pales Glory of Sulfa Drugs

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK, Aug. 2—A new era in medicine, the conquest of germs by interfering with their eating and digestion, is sweeping through the military hospitals of America and England.

The sulfa drugs started it, but the realization is coming through a newer and more successful remedy, penicillin.
The difference between the new era and the old is the difference between using a germ poison and a milder cure. Heretofore drugs for germs have poisoned and killed them outright.
The new remedies don't kill the germs as a rule, but weaken them by interfering with the germ's metabolism, leaving the body's natural defenses to kill the bacilli and make the cure.

The sulfas, by saving hundreds of thousands of lives, have demonstrated that this interference works better than outright killing. But the sulfas carry some risks, such as headaches, dizziness, nausea, fever, somnolence, delirium, kidney troubles and occasional damage to the blood.
The new penicillin has shown not a single reported bad human reaction. It is vastly more potent than the sulfas. It is many hundred times more active than those drugs. These are the words doctors and scientists are using in their written reports.

"Penicillin," writes Iago Goldston, M. D. of the New York Academy of Medicine, "Literally pales the glory of sulfa drugs."
The sulfas, he says, are symbols of a new era in chemotherapy. He rates the sulfas and penicillin as foreshadowing the third great step in germ warfare.

The first was Pasteur's demonstration that bacilli cause diseases.
The second was Paul Ehrlich's magic bullets, the arsenic that cured syphilis, and which started chemotherapy.

Penicillin is a chemical manufactured by the common green molds of bread and cheese.
How far penicillin will go in number of germs it attacks is still unknown. But it certainly won't hit them all. This is shown by what penicillin was used for in the first 10 years after Professor Andrew Fleming, the English scientist, discovered it by accident, when a bit of the green mold prevented growth of some staphylococci he was cultivating in his laboratory.

Thereafter it became a regular thing to put penicillin into germ cultures to curb some of the unwanted virulent strains. This left other germs, which penicillin did not harm, free to grow. The germs of whooping cough were regularly thus produced with the aid of penicillin.

The first was Pasteur's demonstration that bacilli cause diseases.
The second was Paul Ehrlich's magic bullets, the arsenic that cured syphilis, and which started chemotherapy.

The bounteous and most tempting meal was served in the large dining room, with the table attractively decorated in a pink and white birthday motif, and centered with a huge birthday cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Kruger's granddaughter, Jane Sollars.

After the serving of the delicious meal, the guests partook of the delicious viands, seated at small tables which were replicas of the buffet table, and also decorated in the pink and white color scheme. The attractive tables were arranged throughout the living room and the cool veranda.

U. S. COLLEGES IN WAR, TOO

Purdue University
Halls and Campus
Now Teeming with Service Students,
Engineer Cadettes

By BERT H. DAVIS
(Central Press Correspondent)
LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Take it from Helen Gilroy and Bob Flanders, both studying engineering—colleges are in the war.

This is the season that once specialized in robes and sheepskins for seniors, with the beginning of a four-month vacation for the remainder of the student body. But this year's mid-June pattern is stepped up, tougher schedule in class and laboratory practical applications of learning, and physical conditioning.

SAILORS, TOO—These trainees hope to be naval electricians.

The general idea this year is to telescope a month's work into two weeks, with even greater acceleration in some courses for which the wartime demand is most urgent.

Purdue University, a pioneer in stiffer courses and concentrated training, enrolls Helen as an engineering cadette, in a well-seasoned program sponsored by Curtiss-Wright corporation.

The airplane makers have already hired her. She is being prepared swiftly for a ready and waiting job in their drafting rooms, assisting graduate engineers.

Even Shop Slang
That course of Helen's includes mathematics, drafting, shop terminology (slang included) and a down to earth experience in shop work, properties of materials and common shop processes.

When these girls, graduated as engineering cadettes, go into full-time industrial work, not many weeks away, they'll be able to look through the blueprint and engineering specifications to visualize and understand the finished product. It's actually a more practical course than many a skilled engineer of today was able to buy in prewar college or technical school. The girls aren't buying it; it's a Curtiss-Wright investment in womanpower.

Naturally, Helen and her classmates—about 100 of them—are bright girls. They were picked especially for mathematics verve. Purdue boys have noticed that they make good dance partners—and co-ed bowling, too, thrived through the winter.

Girl Engineering Aides
Other girls here include a contingent of 80 recent arrivals, who are to be trained as engineering aides for Radio Corporation of America. That's a familiar field for Purdue, since the Hoosier university reports training 600 men and women as radio technicians and hundreds more in the fundamentals of radio engineering. Such war courses, supplementing or built into the regular schedule of studies, date from the early fall of 1941—before Pearl Harbor.

ON THE JOB—Cadettes Barbara Barcroft and Lucille Hanse make small ball and pin hammers on motor-driven lathe.

The uniform and shop coveralls worn by Bob Flanders have an even longer tie with the "between the wars" period. Bob's engineering course is closely allied with his training in the university's R. O. T. C. His work at Purdue will be completed in August—nearly a full year before the date he expected to graduate when he entered in 1940.

Field Artillery Student
The R.O.T.C. in which Flanders is taking advanced work specializes in field artillery. At the beginning of World War II Purdue had graduated one-eighth of all the field artillery officers that have come into the U. S. Army through R.O.T.C. units. The students learn the whole bag of tricks with modern howitzers and other mobile equipment. They'll be commissioned as Army lieutenants soon.

Ordnance Officers, Too
Ordnance officers are now trained here, too. As if that wasn't enough to make this co-ed campus a clearing-house for the war program—and an exciting, hustling place to be—Purdue operates flight training on a pioneer among university airfields. And the Navy is also here, in strength and vigor that couldn't be overlooked for long.

The deep-sea service sends hundreds of sailors at a time to this inland campus for training as naval electricians. Small units of naval officers come here for a training course that deals with Diesel engines.

Sailors have taken over the Cary Halls, Purdue's residences for men, where they follow the same naval regulations that apply aboard ship. "Shore leave" brings the white-clad tars across campus to date some of Helen's classmates—but not this girl, are thronged with Navy, Army and civilian students, men and women.

"War Shop" Chief Topic
"Get these men together," the girls complain, "and they talk 'war shop' through half of a Saturday hop. Don't they realize that they'll have plenty of time to talk when they aren't in the same hall with a dance band and a bevy of girls?"

It isn't that bad, of course, and the fact is that girls who have just laid down a draftsman's T-square before donning a dance frock find a certain amount of charm in campus war talk.

In short, college isn't what it was. There may be overworked civilian teachers who long for the "good old days," when no course was taken too seriously, but the Purdue spirit is better typified by the remark of President Edward C. Elliott just about a year ago. This was when the university head was packing his bags to go to Washington, where he'd serve as director of the Division of Professional Employment and Training in the War Manpower Commission. Dr. Elliott said for his wartime faculty and for college staffs in general:

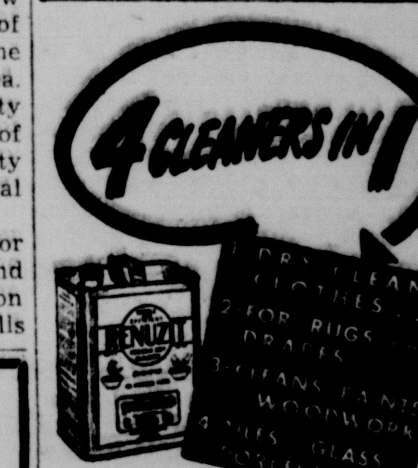

"Each and every one should be prepared to give not 100 percent but 110 percent of your effort for the success of the war program."

Out here they think they're been topping even that quota.

Cities and towns in the United States occupy about 20,000,000 acres.

Batting Slump of Stephens Blamed for Brownie Tumble

By SID FEDER (By The Associated Press)

If Messrs. William Cox and Bucky Harris will step into the laundry closet or some such sanctuary to continue their debate on just who is the "All American jerk," the meeting will take up the rise and fall of the Brownies of St. Louis. Especially the fall.

For what has happened to the Brownies of late should happen to your mother-in-law. A couple of weeks ago, they zoomed along merrily.

Then the bubble busted—and Luke Sewell suddenly found out there's nothing to laugh about. Or can you see something funny in seventh place?—because that's exactly where the Brownies are after having dropped their fifth straight decision, a 4-3 shiner pinned on them by Southpaw Milt Haffner and the Washington Senators last night.

Milt's six-hit win put Washington in a virtual second place tie with the Chicago White Sox in the American League, since James Joseph Dykes' Windy City Warriors had a lot of the wind taken out of them in Philadelphia. There the Athletics put on a two-run rally in the eighth to take a 5-3 verdict, which left the Nats only one percentage point out of the second slot. In the only other big league lawn party, Frankie Gustine singled home a ninth-inning marker to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 win over the Boston Braves and move the Bucs up to 1-2 games away from the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League parade.

The Brownies' five game losing streak isn't even the half of it. They've now blown 12 out of 16 since they hit fourth place on July 17.

The chief reason the Brownies have come apart is that Vern Stephens' bat has become a bouquet of sweet peas for Susie, for all the good it's done. In two weeks, his average has skidded from .336 right down to .302.

But that's hardly the only ailment. In that 16-game flop, only three elbows have managed to go the full nine innings. For comic relief, however, yesterday's leading laugh came when Harris, the deposed manager of the Phillies, announced that, in his opinion, William (I used to play for Yale) Cox, the Phils' president, was "the all American jerk." To which William replied that Bucky must have been looking in a mirror when he made the remark. Bucky, however, claims priorities. He said it first.

—Spying— On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Rudy Golomb, former Chicago Cardinals guard who was captured in Tunisia, has written his old employer from a German prison camp asking for cigarettes. . . But only nearest of kin are permitted to send packages to war prisoners and the army and the cross don't tell outsiders the addresses of those relatives. . . So if the nearest of kin will get in touch with the Cards, maybe Rudy will get some smokes. . . Several of the "name" trotters won't race at Empire City unless the soft, sandy surface is removed from the track. Bill Cane is seeking permission to have it scraped before the Hambletonian.

Quote, Unquote Frank Howard, Clemson College grid coach (upon viewing his squad of 35 players 17 years and under): "Trying to build a football team out of this bunch is going to be like trying to make a peach pie without peaches."

One-Min Sports Page Kerby Farrell, who has been first-basing for the Braves since Johnny McCarthy busted a leg, doubled as manager and bull pen pitcher of the Erie (Pa.) sailors last year. He could yank a pitcher and put himself in at the same time—and ran up a string of 18 scoreless innings doing it.

Today's Guest Star Harry Sheer, Chicago Daily News: "Now Bucky Harris has two presents from the City of Brotherly Love—a wrist watch and—a boot."

Dogged Dozen Mike Casteel, U. of Arizona coach, has 12 players definitely lined up for his team next fall and says he can't decide whether to have two six-man teams or a regular eleven with a sub. . . All of Arizona's home games have been cancelled by the other teams, too, so Roy Drachman suggests that Mike should arrange "telegraphic" games—just like rifle meets. . . "There'd be a hell of a lot of touchdowns," says Roy, "and that's what the crowd wants, so why not?"

Backfield For Irish Just Kids

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Notre Dame, preparing to carry on its great gridiron dynasty with a mixture of navy and marine students and seven 1942 let-terms, will spring one of its youngest backfields in history against football foes this fall.

John Lujack of Connelville, Pa., will be a left half, Bob Kelly, hero of Chicago's city prep champions, at right half, and Jules Rykovich of Gary, Ind., at full-back. Their average age is 18, and none has played in a college game.

They will support Angelo "Bombsight" Bertelli, the passing wizard who is the only regular in the Monogram group. He will be around only for five games before being sent elsewhere for additional marine training.

"We don't have a chance for a great team—and that's not a professional man," Coach Frank Leahy insisted today. "The powerhouses this year will be Michigan, Northwestern, Army and Navy. We meet all of them, too."

However, Leahy is going to stick to the T formation.

Reds All Set For New York

CINCINNATI, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds finish up with the New York Giants today already having won three of the four game series.

Elmer Riddle, sporting the best pitching record on the Reds staff, will be trying for his fifteenth victory. He will be opposed by Hardy Feldman, young righthander, who has been shelled from the mound twice this season by the Reds.

Mel Ott, Giant manager, indicated he would be back in the lineup at right field. Ott benched himself last week for light hitting but Buster Maynard, who replaced him, has been no improvement.

HE'S STAR SOFTBALL PITCHER DESPITE LOSS OF LEFT ARM

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A boyhood accident which cost Billy Bartz the loss of his left arm failed to keep him off the sports field—and in a starring role.

Billy was 11 when a guffered the loss of his arm—a giant firecracker he had picked up exploded in his hand. Billy was interested in all sports and baseball was his favorite game. Some day, he often had hoped, he might become a big league pitcher.

WAR BONDS GIVEN FOUR HORSEMEN

Four War Bonds were carried away by horsemen who raced at the Fair here last week although only the track record for trotters was broken. It was revealed by Frank E. Ellis, the secretary, as he dug into the mass of work preparatory to closing his books.

Before the Fair started, Harry Warfield, the manager of Stone's Grills, had put up two bonds, one for the owner of the horse that broke the track pacing record and one for the horse that broke the record for trotters.

When Mary Martinique trotted the mile in the first heat of the opening days' races in 2:07 1-2 she lowered the trot mark and took one of the bonds.

When Senator Abbe and Little Pat, with marks of 1:58 3-4, met in the free-for-all pace, there were few in the crowd that packed the stands who did not expect to see the pacing record for the old track fall. But they were disappointed, for although Senator Abbe won all three heats he was not sufficiently pressed to more than come within a quarter of a second of the 2:03 1-4 record set two years ago by The Woodsman.

With prospects of the pacing record remaining intact when Dr. H. M. Marshall failed to break it with his outstanding colt, King's Counsel, in the three-year-old pace Friday (Thursday's postponed card), Warfield put up a $25 bond for the owner of both the trotter and pacer that went the fastest miles on Saturday. He got more than he bargained for, but he did not back down even though he had to lay down three bonds to make good his offer.

Charles Lacy's Little Evie trotted the fastest mile of the closing day in winning the second heat of the handicap trot, and her owner was awarded a War Bond. But, when Walnut Abbe won the first heat of the 2:15 pace and Hollywood C won the second in the identical time of 2:07 to tie for the pacer, bonds were given to both owners, Gabe Carnal and Clint Lighthill.

Luke Appling Comes Back With His Bat

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Luke Appling, the Chicago White Sox "man who came back," is leading the American League hit parade today and aiming at the batting championship he held seven years ago.

The shortstop veteran tore opposing pitchers apart during the past week, thumping out 18 hits in 40 trips to the plate to boost his average 14 points, all the way to .331, and replace Rookie Dick Wakefield of the Detroit Tigers in the No. 1 slot among the junior circuit hitters. Wakefield fell off five points during the week to .321, for second place.

Newcomers to the top ten clouters after the past week's wallowing were Nick Etten of the Yankees, Pete Fox of the Boston Red Sox and Wally Loses of the Chicago White Sox.

Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals "rhythm swinger," remained ten points in front of his nearest National League rival—Brooklyn Billy Herman—although he dropped six points during the week to .340—getting nine hits in 33 times at bat. Biggest surge of the week saw Arky Vaughan of the Dodgers, climb from sixth place to a tie for third with .313.

HERE'S HOW TO WIN WAR IN OPINION OF EXPERTS AND BIG COMMENTATORS

le plans and the most dashing sort of attack in Europe and on Japan.

JOHN GROVER, AP Features: "When there's a breakthrough into the Balkans, the end of the war is in sight. It means: (1) Italy will have been knocked out; (2) Germany will be trapped between the Russian, Balkan and Western fronts; (3) The Mediterranean short route to Burma will be clear for transport of men and munitions, permitting imminent use of the 'China platform' for knocking out Japan."

CAPT. LOWELL M. LIMPUS, New York Daily News: "Quickest victory involves two points: (1) Support overseas campaigns by keeping swivel chair strategists out of the hair of a magnificently functioning high command; (2) Bolster the faltering home front by cracking down on greedy capital and labor and shutting up yammering political heels."

Markets and Finance

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Persistent purchasing of wheat today, first by mills and later by interests acting for industries, gave the market a firm tone. Prices advanced initially when buying orders could not be filled until quotations had advanced more than a cent a bushel, and reactions were minor, for most of the session.

Moderate hedge selling was reported on price bulges, but there was no pressure on the market from any source. Trading was rather quiet after the early advance.

Wheat closed firm and 3/4 cent higher than yesterday's finish, September $1.43 1/2, oats unchanged to 1/4 up, September 69 1/2, and rye 1/2 cent advanced, September $1.00 1/2.

sociated Press: "The individual operation which would win the war the quickest would be a major invasion of France, across the English Channel from that grand supply base, Britain. This would place the Hitlerian forces between two mighty mill-stones—The Russian and the invading Allied armies—which would grind exceeding fine. Better yet let us have this cross-channel invasion supported by several subsidiary expeditions elsewhere. Having said all this, we have to ask whether such a program would be feasible, and the only ones who can answer that are the Allied High Command."

PAUL SCHUBERT, Mutual: "The program that will do most to win the war for the United Nations can be summed up in the single word FIGHT."

MAJOR ALEXANDER P. de SEVERSKY, aviation authority: "Immediate unification of all our aviation efforts under a single and autonomous air department. Such a step would at last free our American aeronautical genius for full and unhampered development of air power."

KIRKE L. STIMSON, The Associated Press: "The solar plexus of the Nazi war effort ashore, afloat and in the air in my judgment is Rumanian oil. An Allied knock-out blow at the Ploesti field in Rumania and its outcrops would go farther to shorten the war, minimize losses and push the Axis in Europe to an internal collapse and surrender than any other possible or probable Allied stroke."

REAR ADMIRAL YATES STIRLING, U.S.N. (Retired): "The war will be won by the correct coordination of the land, sea and air forces and not by any one arm, as has been proved in North Africa in Sicily and in the southwest Pacific. It is a blow at the morale of our armed forces to make our public believe any one arm can win the war alone."

MAJOR AL WILLIAMS, Scripps - Howard newspapers: "All out continuous air bombardment without restriction from old men who failed to see or prepare for any phase of this war."
